

Ecological Workshop 2025

Directed by Judith Sutera OSB
and Elizabeth Carrillo OSB

Judith and Elizabeth are members of Mount St. Scholastica Monastery in Atchison, Kansas, USA.

Judith has Master's degrees in counselling and in monastic spirituality, serves as an oblate director for her community and is a writer, speaker, and retreat director.

Elizabeth has a Master's degree in Religion and the Environment. She is a board and staff member of the Centre for Deep Green Faith, which provides offerings that blend eco-theology with eco-spirituality grounded in the Christian tradition.

WORKSHOP

Contemplating a World Restored: A Benedictine Approach to Ecological Conversion

The monastic ancestors taught that the world was raised to new life through Jesus, and thus they practiced living Paradise in the desert. To live contemplatively in creation is still the pathway to ecological conversion and the way to transform both the internal and external deserts of our day. Highlighting the connection between contemplation and ecology, the workshop will focus on teachings and practices that inform and support our journey toward a more connected and caring relationship with our common home.

This workshop day will be offered at
Jamberoo Abbey, NSW: 15 February 2025
Tarrawarra Abbey, VIC: 8 March 2025
Santa Teresa, Ormiston, QLD: 22 March 2025
Congregational Centre, Glebe, NSW: 5 April 2025

RSVP to spirituality@goodsams.org.au

Places at some venues are limited.

All registrations must be completed by 29 November 2024.